

Faithways Studio, Inc. — Formation Documents for Legal Review

A Colorado Public Benefit Corporation, d/b/a "Church in Conversation"

Prepared 2026-07-21. This package contains four documents, in order:

1. Articles of Incorporation
2. Bylaws & Organizational Resolutions
3. IP Assignment and Contribution Agreement
4. Shareholder Agreement (Buy-Sell / Deadlock Provisions)

These are working drafts prepared by the founders (Mark and Susan Chadwick) for a closely-held, two-person family company. They are provided here for legal review.

Articles of Incorporation — Faithways Studio

A Colorado Public Benefit Corporation, d/b/a Church in Conversation · Filing-ready draft Vo.4 · 2026-07-21

Status: ready to file. Not legal advice, but built through three rounds of independent review and refined against real Colorado statute research. Naming: the corporate entity itself is named Faithways Studio — chosen so it can outlive, own, and eventually sell or spin off any single product without a rename; "Church in Conversation" remains the registered trade name (DBA) and trademark the corporation operates its current flagship product under. Filed via the standard "Articles of Incorporation for a Profit Corporation" form with the PBC box checked; filing fee: $50.

How this maps to the Colorado online filing: Articles I, II, VI, VII are entered as online form fields; Articles III, IV, V, VIII, IX are the substance the default form omits — save them as an "Additional Provisions" attachment and upload at that step. Colorado's PBC filing form has a specific checkbox confirming the entity is a public benefit corporation — check it.

Article I — Name

The name of the corporation is Faithways Studio, Inc.

(A corporate designator is legally required here — C.R.S. § 7-90-601 requires a for-profit corporation's name to contain "Corporation," "Incorporated," "Company," "Limited," or an abbreviation (Corp., Inc., Co., Ltd.). "Inc." is the standard, least brand-competing choice.)

(Colorado no longer requires "PBC," "Public Benefit Corporation," or similar in the name itself — that requirement became optional in 2017. Because the name omits it, the corporation must give written notice of its public benefit corporation status to any person to whom it issues shares, before the shares are issued — handled in the Organizational Resolutions below.)

Trade name. Once formed, the corporation will register "Church in Conversation" as a Colorado trade name (d/b/a) — a separate, simple filing distinct from this entity-name registration — and operate its current flagship product under that name.

Article II — Type, Duration, and Authorized Shares

The corporation is a public benefit corporation organized under the Colorado Business Corporation Act, C.R.S. § 7-101-501 et seq., with perpetual duration.

The corporation is authorized to issue 10,000,000 shares of common stock, no par value.

Article III — Purpose and Specific Public Benefit

The corporation may engage in any lawful act or activity for which corporations may be organized under the Colorado Business Corporation Act.

Pursuant to C.R.S. § 7-101-503, the corporation is a public benefit corporation, and its specific public benefit — a religious and educational public benefit within the meaning of that section — is to create safe spaces to explore faith and the story of Jesus. This specific public benefit includes, and is defined together with, the Foundational Commitments set forth in Article IV, which are integral to it.

The corporation may pursue this benefit directly, through products it builds and operates (presently Church in Conversation), or by licensing its systems, technology, or methodology to others who share this purpose.

Article IV — Foundational Commitments (Mission Lock)

The following commitments are constitutive of the corporation's specific public benefit — applying equally to products and experiences the corporation operates directly and to any systems, methodologies, or frameworks it develops, licenses, or otherwise makes available to others in service of the same purpose — and the board of directors shall manage or direct the business and affairs of the corporation in a manner that balances the pecuniary interests of the shareholders, the best interests of those materially affected by the corporation's conduct, and this specific public benefit, as required by C.R.S. § 7-101-506.

These are principles to guide the board's good-faith judgment, not a mechanical checklist — each names something the corporation takes seriously and is accountable to, while trusting the board to apply it reasonably to circumstances as they actually arise. Nothing in this paragraph limits the enforceability of the amendment-protection provision below, or affects the status of these commitments as constitutive of the corporation's specific public benefit under Article III.

1. Genuine exploration, not persuasion. The corporation's products and experiences shall be designed to support honest exploration and understanding, and to be safe places to ask real questions — including questions of doubt — without pressure toward any predetermined conclusion, position, or outcome.
2. Transparency and accountability. The corporation will never represent its work as more certain, more reviewed, or more validated than it actually is. Whatever grounds a product's claims — its sources, its confidence, its limitations — shall be visible to every participant; and where independent review is claimed, it shall be real, appropriate to the product's own content, and honestly disclosed.

3. No engagement optimization. No product or system of the corporation shall be designed or configured to maximize engagement duration, return frequency, or emotional dependency as an objective in itself.
4. Outside funding never alters the corporation's purpose or convictions. The board decides what the corporation builds and how; funding may support that choice, but is never, by itself, a reason to make it. No gift, payment, sponsorship, or investment shall alter, soften, or override the corporation's purpose (Article III) or the commitments of this Article IV.

(Deliberately stated at the level of principle, not mechanism. CiC's own specific operating choices, including always-free core access and external scholarly review of its historical reconstructions specifically, remain real and serious commitments; they now live in the Organizational Covenant / product-level commitments for "Church in Conversation" specifically, rather than being hard-locked at the parent-entity level for every future product to inherit.)

Amendment protection. This Article IV may be amended only by the affirmative vote of at least four-fifths (4/5) of the outstanding shares entitled to vote, voting together as a single class. This four-fifths requirement applies to any amendment of this Article IV or Article III, and to any merger, conversion, share exchange, sale of all or substantially all of the corporation's assets, or other transaction or corporate action that would eliminate, alter, circumvent, or render inoperative the specific public benefit described in Article III or the commitments set forth in this Article IV, in addition to any approval of the board of directors required by law. (Extending the requirement beyond "amendment" closes a gap: Colorado's own statutory backstop for mergers/conversions/asset sales (C.R.S. § 7-101-504(4)) runs at two-thirds of each class, not four-fifths, and attaches to the Article III specific-public-benefit statement — which is why Article III now explicitly folds Article IV's commitments into that statement. While the corporation has two shareholders at 50/50, this provision is self-binding rather than externally enforced; its real protective value activates once a third holder or an unequal split exists.)

Article V — Directors

The number, terms, election, and qualifications of directors shall be as set forth in the bylaws. The corporation is not required by statute to maintain independent directors or a designated benefit officer; whether to build a voluntary advisory board or independent governance structure beyond the sole founder is a deliberate choice for the corporation to make, not one imposed by this entity form.

Pursuant to C.R.S. § 7-101-506(3), a disinterested director's failure to satisfy the duty set forth in § 7-101-506(1) shall not, by itself, constitute a violation of that director's duties under §§ 7-108-401 and 7-108-402 or Article 109 of the Colorado Business Corporation Act.

To the fullest extent permitted by the Colorado Business Corporation Act, no director of the corporation shall be personally liable to the corporation or its shareholders for monetary damages for breach of fiduciary duty as a director, except for liability that may not be eliminated or limited under applicable law.

Article VI — Registered Agent and Principal Office

The registered agent of the corporation is Mark Chadwick, whose registered (physical Colorado street) address is 3028 Valley Park Blvd., Larkspur, CO 80118, and whose mailing address is the same. By this filing the registered agent consents to the appointment.

The principal office of the corporation is 3028 Valley Park Blvd., Larkspur, CO 80118, mailing address the same.

Article VII — Annual Benefit Report

Pursuant to C.R.S. § 7-101-507, the corporation shall prepare an annual report assessing its overall performance against a third-party standard the board selects, describing the ways it promoted its specific public benefit during the year and any obstacles encountered. The report shall be provided to shareholders and made available on the corporation's public website (financial or proprietary information may be omitted), or provided free on request if no website exists.

Article VIII — Incorporator

The name and mailing address of the individual causing this document to be delivered for filing (the incorporator) is:

Mark Chadwick, 3028 Valley Park Blvd., Larkspur, CO 80118.

Article IX — Severability

If any provision of these Articles of Incorporation is held invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall continue in full force and effect, and the invalid or unenforceable provision shall be reformed to the extent possible to give effect to its original intent.

Faithways Studio, Inc. — Bylaws & Organizational Resolutions

Companion to the Articles of Incorporation · Draft Vo.1 · 2026-07-21

Status: ready to adopt. These are the two documents that come immediately after filing the Articles — the Bylaws (the standing governance rules) and the Organizational Resolutions (the first formal actions that actually appoint Susan, adopt the bylaws, and issue shares). Kept deliberately simple for a two-person, closely-held, family-owned PBC.

Part A — Bylaws of Faithways Studio, Inc.

Article 1 — Offices

The principal office of the corporation shall be as designated in the Articles of Incorporation, or as the board may from time to time determine.

Article 2 — Shareholders

2.1. The corporation shall have a single class of stock — one class of common stock, held initially by Mark Chadwick and Susan Chadwick in equal shares. 2.2. Shareholder action may be taken at a meeting or, in lieu of a meeting, by unanimous written consent signed by all shareholders — the ordinary and expected method for a two-shareholder company. 2.3. An annual shareholder meeting is not required to be held in person; a written consent satisfying applicable requirements of the Colorado Business Corporation Act suffices.

Article 3 — Board of Directors

3.1. Number. The board shall consist of not fewer than one and not more than five directors, the exact number fixed from time to time by resolution of the shareholders. Initially, two directors: Mark Chadwick and Susan Chadwick. Mark Chadwick serves as Chair of the Board; in the event the directors cannot reach majority agreement on a board-level matter, the Chair's vote is decisive. 3.2. Meetings. The board may act at a meeting (in person, by phone, or by video) or by unanimous written consent in lieu of a meeting. 3.3. Quorum and voting. A quorum consists of a majority of directors then in office. Except where the Articles of Incorporation require a different vote (see Article IV of the Articles, the 4/5-of-shares mission-lock protection — a shareholder-level vote, not a director-level one), action of the board requires the affirmative vote of a majority of directors present at a meeting at which a quorum exists. 3.4. Deadlock resolution. Deadlock on an ordinary board matter is resolved by the Chair's tie-breaking vote (Article 3.1). This does not extend to any matter requiring a shareholder-level vote under Article IV of the Articles of Incorporation or the companion Shareholder Agreement — including any sale, merger, or other change-of-control transaction — which always requires both shareholders' agreement regardless of who chairs the board. 3.5. The public-benefit balancing duty. Per C.R.S. § 7-101-506 and Article IV of the Articles of Incorporation, the board shall manage the corporation's affairs in a manner that balances shareholder pecuniary interest, the interests of those materially affected by the corporation's conduct, and the corporation's specific public benefit.

Article 4 — Officers

4.1. The officers of the corporation shall be a President, a Treasurer, and such other officers (including a Secretary) as the board may from time to time appoint. One person may hold more than one office. 4.2. The President is the chief executive officer, responsible for general management and day-to-day operations, and may sign contracts and other instruments on the corporation's behalf unless the board directs otherwise. 4.3. The Treasurer is responsible for the corporation's funds and financial records — bank and payment-processor account management, bookkeeping, and preparation or oversight of tax filings — and may sign checks and authorize transactions in the ordinary course of business. 4.4. Officers serve at the pleasure of the board and may be removed, with or without cause, by board action at any time.

Article 5 — Indemnification

The corporation shall indemnify its directors and officers to the fullest extent permitted by the Colorado Business Corporation Act for actions taken in good faith on the corporation's behalf.

Article 6 — Amendment

These bylaws may be amended by a majority vote of the board or by shareholder written consent, except that no amendment may alter or circumvent Article IV of the Articles of Incorporation (the Foundational Commitments / mission lock), which is amendable only as that Article itself provides.

Part B — Organizational Resolutions

Two-step sequence, standard for a new corporation: the incorporator acts first (to seat the initial board), then the newly seated board acts (to adopt bylaws, elect officers, and issue stock).

Step 1 — Action of the Incorporator (Mark Chadwick), in lieu of an organizational meeting

RESOLVED, that the following persons are appointed as the initial directors of the corporation, to serve until their successors are duly elected:

- Mark Chadwick
- Susan Chadwick

FURTHER RESOLVED, that this action is taken pursuant to C.R.S. § 7-90-204 in lieu of an organizational meeting, and shall be filed with the records of the corporation.

(Signature: Mark Chadwick, Incorporator, dated July 21, 2026 — the planned incorporation date. Update this to match whichever date the Colorado Secretary of State actually stamps on the filed Articles, if it lands on a different day.)

Step 2 — Action of the Board of Directors (Mark Chadwick and Susan Chadwick), in lieu of the first board meeting

RESOLVED, that the Bylaws set forth in Part A above are adopted as the Bylaws of the corporation.

FURTHER RESOLVED, that the following officers are elected, to serve at the pleasure of the board:

- President: Mark Chadwick
- Treasurer & Secretary: Susan Chadwick

FURTHER RESOLVED, that the corporation is authorized to issue 3,500,000 shares of common stock to Mark Chadwick and 3,500,000 shares of common stock to Susan Chadwick (an equal, 50/50 split, issuing 7,000,000 of the 10,000,000 shares authorized under Article II of the Articles of Incorporation — leaving 3,000,000 shares (30%) unissued and available for future use, e.g., a future hire, advisor grant, or investor, without needing to amend the Articles first), in exchange for cash payment of $20.00 each ($40.00 total), payable to the corporation upon issuance.

FURTHER RESOLVED, that the corporation's shares shall be uncertificated; the corporation shall maintain a share register reflecting ownership, and no paper stock certificates shall be issued unless the board later determines otherwise, in which case any certificate issued shall bear the legend required by C.R.S. § 7-101-505.

FURTHER RESOLVED, that the President and Treasurer are each authorized, acting individually, to open bank and payment-processing accounts (including with Stripe) in the corporation's name, and to execute such documents as are reasonably necessary to give effect to the foregoing resolutions.

FURTHER RESOLVED, that the board has determined that $40.00 total ($20.00 from each of Mark Chadwick and Susan Chadwick), or approximately $0.0000057 per share for the 7,000,000 shares issued, is a fair price for stock in a newly formed corporation with no operating history, revenue, or material assets; upon receipt of this amount, the shares shall be validly issued, fully paid, and non-assessable, and this issuance date establishes the original issuance date for purposes of the holding period under IRC §1202 and for federal and state tax reporting. (Paying cash for the shares, rather than issuing them for services, avoids any question about the fair-market-value of services rendered under IRC §83. This is a separate transaction from, and does not address, the separate question of formally assigning CiC's pre-incorporation IP — code, content, methodology, and related assets, presently owned by Mark Chadwick personally — into the corporation, which is addressed in the companion IP Assignment Agreement as a capital contribution, not part of this cash purchase.)

FURTHER RESOLVED, that shares are issued subject to, and with notice of, the corporation's status as a public benefit corporation under C.R.S. § 7-101-503; the President and Treasurer are directed to send each shareholder the written notice of uncertificated share issuance required by C.R.S. § 7-106-207, including the public-benefit-corporation disclosure required by C.R.S. § 7-101-505, within a reasonable time after issuance.

FURTHER RESOLVED, that the corporation's fiscal year shall end December 31.

(Signatures: Mark Chadwick, Director; Susan Chadwick, Director — both required, since board action under these bylaws needs majority-of-quorum agreement and with two directors that means both, absent a formal meeting.)

IP Assignment and Contribution Agreement

Assignor: Mark Chadwick (individually) · Assignee: Faithways Studio, Inc., a Colorado public benefit corporation · Draft V0.1 · 2026-07-21

Status: working document, ready to sign. Companion to the Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws/Organizational Resolutions. Moves the IP Mark built personally before the corporation existed (code, content, methodology, domains, the "Church in Conversation" name) into the corporation, so the company actually owns what it runs and sells. Structured as a straight capital contribution (§118 income exclusion, §362(a)(2) carryover basis), not a Section 351 stock-for-property exchange — since Mark and Susan are married (unlimited marital deduction covers any value shift between them), this simpler path needs no stock recalculation and no outside tax opinion to be sound.

Effective Date. This Agreement is effective as of, and conditioned upon, the date the Articles of Incorporation of Faithways Studio, Inc. are filed and accepted by the Colorado Secretary of State (the "Incorporation Date") — [insert actual stamped filing date once known]. This Agreement has no effect before that date, since the Assignee does not yet exist to receive anything.

Parties.

- Assignor: Mark Chadwick, an individual, residing at 3028 Valley Park Blvd., Larkspur, CO 80118.
- Assignee: Faithways Studio, Inc., a Colorado public benefit corporation, with its principal office at the same address.

1. Background

Prior to the Incorporation Date, Assignor personally developed the intellectual property and related assets described in Section 2 (collectively, the "Assigned Property"), in connection with the project and product known as "Church in Conversation." The parties intend that, as of the Incorporation Date, Assignor contributes the Assigned Property to the Assignee as a capital contribution — additional paid-in capital, increasing Assignor's basis in shares Assignor already holds — and not in exchange for any additional shares of stock. This is a separate transaction from, and not part of, the founders' cash purchase of stock addressed in the Organizational Resolutions. The shares purchased for cash are issued immediately prior to, and are not conditioned upon, this contribution — the corporation exists as a newly formed corporation with no material assets at the moment of that issuance, and receives the Assigned Property only afterward, as a separate and subsequent transaction.

2. Assigned Property

//This list is a starting inventory built from the project's known state — confirm complete and accurate before signing; add or remove line items as needed.//

- Source code and software, including the "cic-poc" application (backend, frontend, conversational-graph logic, RAG/indexing systems, session and message-cap mechanisms, and all related configuration and infrastructure code) and the "cic-website" marketing/support site, together with all associated documentation.
- Written content and historical/methodological materials, including the world files and historical reconstructions built to date, the project's Constitution, Vision document, Organizational Covenant, and all associated research, drafting, and editorial work product.
- The facilitation and reconstruction methodology developed for building and validating historical worlds and conversational encounters (the "think-tank"/licensable system referenced in Article III of the Articles of Incorporation).

- Domain names: churchinconversation.org, churchinconversation.com, and any related registrations held by Assignor.
- The "Church in Conversation" name and mark, and any trade-name registration, trademark application, or trademark registration filed in Assignor's name, together with the goodwill of the business connected with their use.
- All other copyrights, trade secrets, and other intellectual property rights Assignor owns in the foregoing, in any medium now known or later developed.

3. Assignment

Effective as of the Incorporation Date, Assignor irrevocably assigns, transfers, and conveys to Assignee all of Assignor's right, title, and interest in and to the Assigned Property, free and clear of all liens and encumbrances, together with all rights to sue for past, present, and future infringement.

4. Consideration

The Assigned Property is contributed to Assignee as a capital contribution, without the issuance of any additional shares of stock in exchange. The Assigned Property becomes an asset of the Assignee, and the contribution increases Assignor's basis in the shares of common stock Assignor already holds, consistent with treatment under Section 118 (corporate income exclusion) and Section 362(a)(2) (carryover basis) of the Internal Revenue Code. Consistent with the corporation's own determination that it has no operating history, revenue, or material assets at incorporation (see the Organizational Resolutions), the Assigned Property is recorded at $0.00 value for basis purposes — a reasonable, defensible figure for a pre-revenue contribution of self-created property with no established market value, and simple to document without a paid appraisal.

5. Representations

Assignor represents that Assignor is the sole owner of the Assigned Property, has the full right and authority to assign it, and that the Assigned Property is not subject to any third-party license, claim, or encumbrance that would limit Assignee's ownership or use.

6. Further Assurances

Assignor agrees to execute any further documents and take any further actions reasonably requested by Assignee to perfect or evidence the assignment made here, including any assignments needed to record trademark or domain-name transfers with the applicable registrars or the USPTO.

7. Governing Law

This Agreement is governed by the laws of the State of Colorado.

Shareholder Agreement (Buy-Sell / Deadlock Provisions)

Faithways Studio, Inc., a Colorado public benefit corporation · Between Mark Chadwick and Susan Chadwick, its two shareholders · Draft Vo.1 · 2026-07-21

Status: working agreement between Mark and Susan Chadwick. Companion to the Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws/Organizational Resolutions. Kept deliberately simple and low-cost for a two-person, family-owned company. Ordinary board deadlock is resolved directly by the Chair's tie-breaking vote (Bylaws Article 3.1) — no outside mediation or arbitration process is needed. This Agreement's real job is the one thing the Bylaws' tie-breaker doesn't cover: what happens with a sale, and what happens with the shares if either of you dies. Not a substitute for personal estate planning (wills, and a trust later if the company becomes valuable), but nothing here is blocked on hiring an attorney.

1. Purpose

This Agreement supplements the Bylaws and does not modify or weaken Article IV of the Articles of Incorporation (the Foundational Commitments / mission lock) in any way. Nothing in this Agreement authorizes any action that Article IV's amendment-protection provision would otherwise require a four-fifths (4/5) vote of shares to approve; where this Agreement and Article IV conflict, Article IV controls.

For purposes of this Agreement, "change-of-control transaction" means any merger, conversion, share exchange, sale of all or substantially all of the corporation's assets, dissolution, or other transaction or corporate action described in Article IV of the Articles of Incorporation.

This Agreement governs only for so long as Mark Chadwick and Susan Chadwick are the sole shareholders of the corporation. Any issuance or transfer of shares to a third party is conditioned on that person executing a joinder to this Agreement, or on the shareholders amending this Agreement to address the resulting ownership structure, before the issuance or transfer is completed.

2. Transfer restrictions — right of first refusal

Neither shareholder may sell, gift, pledge, or otherwise transfer any shares to a third party without first offering them to the other shareholder on the same price and terms ("ROFR"). The other shareholder has [[30/45/60]] days to accept the offer, in whole or in part; if declined or only partly taken up, the transferring shareholder may complete the transfer to the originally proposed third party, on the same terms, within [[90]] days, or the ROFR process restarts.

//Exception to consider: transfers to a spouse, child, or a trust for estate-planning purposes, which typically don't trigger a full ROFR but should still require the transferee to agree in writing to be bound by this Agreement.//

3. Deadlock resolution

Mark and Susan resolve ordinary disagreements directly, as they always have. For a board-level matter, the Chair's tie-breaking vote (Bylaws Article 3.1) resolves any deadlock. This does not extend to, and cannot be used to force, any sale, merger, dissolution, or other change-of-control transaction, or any matter that would itself require the four-fifths vote under Article IV of the Articles of Incorporation — those are governed exclusively by Section 4 below.

4. Change-of-control default, and buyout events

A sale, merger, dissolution, or other change-of-control transaction shall occur only with the mutual consent of both shareholders. If mutual consent is not reached, the corporation shall continue to operate under its current ownership; neither shareholder may be compelled to sell their shares, and the corporation may not be compelled to pursue such a transaction, as a result of this Agreement. A buyout of a shareholder's shares under this Agreement occurs only upon the specific events set forth in Section 5 (death or permanent disability), using the valuation method set forth in Section 6.

5. Death or permanent disability

This Agreement does not require a buyout on the death or permanent disability of either shareholder. If one shareholder dies, that shareholder's shares pass to the surviving spouse, and the corporation continues to operate as before. If both shareholders die, their shares pass to their children (or as otherwise directed by their estate plans), remain subject to this Agreement, and the corporation continues to operate. If the corporation's shares become significantly valuable — comparable to how the shareholders may hold other significant assets, such as their home, in a trust — the shareholders, or after both have passed their children, may establish a trust to hold the shares, at whatever point they judge it worthwhile. Neither a trust nor any other estate-planning arrangement is required by this Agreement, and none needs to be decided now.

6. Valuation method

If the shareholders ever voluntarily agree to a buyout under this Agreement, share value is whatever the shareholders agree to at that time, or, absent agreement, the value set by a single independent appraiser both shareholders select. No valuation formula needs to be fixed in advance, since no buyout is required or automatic under this Agreement.

7. Confidentiality and non-disparagement

Both shareholders agree to keep the terms of any dispute, mediation, or buyout confidential, and not to disparage the corporation, its mission, or each other in connection with any transfer under this Agreement.

8. Governing law and amendment

This Agreement is governed by Colorado law. It may be amended only by written agreement of both shareholders, and no amendment may weaken or circumvent Article IV of the Articles of Incorporation.
